" [5] Concepts in religion include: Jewish expiation - the process of causing a transgression to be forgiven or forgiven. In the rabbitten Jewish, people to achieve the expiation through repentance, sometimes followed by a combination of confession, refund, tribulations (displeasure life experiences (Veis), the experience of dying, or other factors. Another aspect of repair, is the occurrence of Kippur (the day itself, as distinct from the temple service performed on it), also known as "the day of repair", which © A Bible / Jewish Observation. Intra¸¸o, in the Christian theology, describes believers that human beings can be reconciled with God through the suffering and sacrificial death of Christ. [6] Expiat¸¸o refers to forgiveness or forgiveness of sin in general and original sin, in particular, through suffering, death and resurrection of Jesus, [7] [8] Throughout the systems, the Christians have used different metaphors and given different explanations of expiation to express how expiation could work. Churches and denominations can vary in what metaphor or explanation they consider fits more with precision in their theological perspective; However all Christians emphasize that Jesus is the Savior of the World and through his death for the sins of humanity were forgiven.
